OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

A Few Fool Election Bets In the Metropolis—High Priced Football—Two Big Bicycle Shows.

[Special Correspondence.]

From the many unprecedented and peculiar conditions surrounding the presidential campaign recently closed it was expected that there would be very few of the usual fool bets made, but it seems that this was a mistake. In fact, there has been a larger crop than usual, and numbers of men are now in the country awaiting the growing out of the half of the mustache which was shaved off as a tribute to party. The idiots who wagered wheelbarrow rides on the result of the election are too numerous to mention, and several of these journeys occur each day on Broadway. Then there is the donkey who has been obliged to sacrifice a circle of hair of the exact size of a silver dollar from the crown of his head. Naturally no bald men were included in this list. The most foolish of all the bets so far reported, however, because it was so dangerous, was one in which the loser agreed to slide head foremost down a 20 foot ladder to the ground. The unfortunate pluckily attempted to live up to the letter of his contract, but as he happened to weigh in the neighborhood of 200 pounds the effort was attended with disaster. He slid beautifully for about five feet, when he lost his grip on the ladder, and the balance of the descent was made in record breaking time. The stopping was the worst phase of the whole affair, though. It was so sudden that the victim will nurse a badly bruised skull and shoulder for several weeks to come. These are but a few of the many fool bets. The returns are not all in yet, and probably will not be for some time to come. Meanwhile the foolkiller is holding back complacently in the happy consciousness that his labors have, for the time being at least, been taken off his hands.

Football Charges.

There has been for several years a good deal of quiet kicking over the enormous admission fees charged by the college football teams at their games in this city. This is bad enough of itself, but when it is taken into consideration that, owing to the petty bickerings and jealousies of the leading universities, the team which has proved by its play the earlier portion of the season to be strongest is debarred from competing, and that, as a result, we do not get the best that might be provided even for

WOMAN AND FASHION.

Novelties In Floral Garniture For Evening Wear—Excess of Fatigue Poison—Wedding Cake Boxes.

The unlimited variety in styles and materials, and especially in dress trimmings, affords each woman a chance for selecting just what is most becoming to her individual case. Decidedly novel are some of the floral trimmings. The first and foremost are the flower vests, which are likely to become as notable a feature here as they already are abroad. One seen at a recent opening was formed of violets, which crossed the shoulders, outlined the decolletage and formed a V at the waist, where little ends of green satin ribbon provided a color contrast. Nothing could be prettier, and, consulting your personal taste, you can ring the changes on any small flower that may seem pleasing to you. Decidedly the floral vest is an acquisition.

Another pretty novelty is a neck ruffle of pink roses clustered together on a band of satin ribbon, while other roses are arranged above it in little groups, whose graceful curves suggest a bordering of tiny ostrich tips, while a big bow of moire ribbon ties this neckband of flowers together.

For the hair nothing could be prettier than the miniature coronet of violets which accompanies the floral vest, with two high tips sprinkled with diamonds. Another pretty novelty is designed to be placed at the side of the head. This takes the form of a crescent of black silken gauze, all strewn with tiny crescents in shimmering silver, while there
